Subject: [Coordinators] Nicole's back

Those of you who know recent Today show history will recognize the pattern here. Maria and I taped our segments for the Monday Today show on Friday. I received an early morning call Sunday from the show suggesting I go in-studio Monday. By the time I returned the call (3 hrs. later), they had decided to "go in a different direction." They are bringing in bimbo Nicole to make the story a "career story."

You may ask how the hell you take a suicide story and make it light fodder for "career expert" Nicole. Just know that this is how the current media environment operates.
