

Transcript from an interview with Kevin's co-worker:

I think there were a great many misunderstandings on everybody's part. I spent 40 hours a week with those people and inevitably I had some loyalty there. My loyalty to you was not as a friend... I can't say personally that I know you that well... Kevin's death just blew everything up in a way that I have never understood why there was so much interest in his story...